

Crime fiction/murder mystery

Sophie Hannah and Agatha Christie

You will love these novels if you'd like leemony Snicket or Sherlock Holmes

Dame Agatha Mary Clarissa Christie, Lady Mallowan, DBE was an English writer known for her sixty-six detective novels and fourteen short story collections, particularly those revolving around fictional detective Hercule Poirot and Miss Marple. She is the bestselling Author of all time and her books have only been outsold by the Holy Bible. She was a revolutionary because there had been very few female authors of her time that were anywhere near as successful.

During WW2 she helped Belgian refugees make a home in England, this would inspire her to invent the legendary detective Hercule Poirot. Poirot is the most famous fictional detective of all time, on par with Sherlock Homes. Christie captured the hearts of people all over the world selling around 2 billion books in total. She wrote for her entire life, even on her death bed. She has had a very eventful life and there are plenty of dramatizations of her life and stories and I would encourage everyone to go and watch them! And because of her historic record in sales and otherwise not a single person has been allowed to write on the adventures and mysteries of Hercule Poirot, until now!

In 2016 the author Sophie Hannah was allowed to write more Hercule Poirot stories, and this is what I'm here to tell you about today. Because Agatha Christies writing often contains language, phrases and expressions that would not be commonly used nowadays, it can be tricky for some readers. Sophie Hannah delivers real Agatha Christie stories in an easy-to-read modern way of writing. As of February 2021, Sophie Hannah has written four novels continuing the stories of Hercule Poirot. The novels are as followed: 'The monogram Murders' 'Mystery of ¾' 'Closed casket, and 'The Killings at Kingfisher hill.' They are not in any order. I love these novels and have all four at home.
